About

Marlène Huissoud (Paris, FR) is an experimental designer. Fascinated by the insect materials, she incorporates them into her creative process like honeybee and silkworms. Within the exhibition, you will discover her new Cocoon Lights, unique pieces for Spazio Nobile, in dialogue with her Cocoons Cabinet nr 6 and models.

Cocoons is looking at new ways of using silkworm's cocoons without killing the worm as it happens during the silk production. The silkworm is one of the most iconic insect experiencing a morphosis during his entire evolution. It is born as a worm but then morph into a butterfly arrived at maturation. Her artworks are made by an accumulation of thousands of silkworm's cocoons and are then varnished with a thin layer of a natural honeybee bio resin. www.spazionobile.com
